General Rules for FiveM

- Be Considerate - Treat every player you come across on the server as if they are streaming on twitch/youtube/tiktok etc. Be mindful of your words and how you dispense them. Some streaming services are more lenient than others, don't go out of your way to get someone canceled. Our RP is going to be a little gritty, and our subject matter is going to be for somewhat mature audiences and everyone streaming needs to be aware of this. If your roleplay is going to be more mature than most then you need to make sure you are doing it in a place that isn't easily seen.
- English please - This RP server and community is predominantly owned and operated by English speaking Americans, members of the UK, and EU. If English is not your first, second, or third language this community may not be for you. We will try to accommodate everyone no matter where you are from, but in order to effectively administrate the server and the community, as well as the in-character roleplay, English comprehension is a must.
  - NOTE: Other languages are allowed on the server in RP scenes, and we welcome it! This rule by no means limits what languages your character is able to speak In-Character, if you know it you can use it.
- Microphones Required - This is a voice server, we can try to accommodate through script functions if you have characters that are roleplaying as non-verbal or can't speak but you need to let us know ahead of time.
- No Hacking - This shouldn't need to be said as FiveM does a good enough job of banning you by itself, however if caught hacking you will be banned permanently from the community.
- No Money Farming - The passing of any and all starting funds/items from any new character, to an existing character for quick OOC personal gain is explicitly forbidden. Job grinding is allowed as you have to work for that money but this is the only exception.
- No OOC Flaming, Bullying, Harassment, Player Disrespect or Admin Disrespect - We ask all members to be cordial with each other and Administrators to a point, however if a player is actively trying to remove themselves away from an OOC situation and you either follow, stalk, bully, or harass them you are in breach of this rule. Also if you are having an OOC problem with another player IE, you don't like them, they don't like you, you may not use whatever OOC issues you may have with each other to cause In-Character conflict or mayhem on the server for any reason. Anyone caught doing this will be suspended from the community and or banned, keep your bullying off of our FiveM server. If you are being harassed In-Character, in actual RP contact the cops, not the administration team.

- No arguing with Administrators - If a situation is not being resolved in a way that satisfies you by an Admin do not openly argue or disrespect that Admin, regardless of their rank. Admin's are here to resolve problems and arguing in OOC or on Discord, or TeamSpeak and calling out the Admin, and or fighting with the Admin does nothing to help resolve your conflict. All it will do is get you in trouble, and not resolve your issue. So please let's be respectful.
- No DMing or PMing Administrators on the server, TS, or Discord - If you have an issue fill out a ticket on discord so we can keep our responses coordinated and organized. Be as detailed as you can, include screenshots if you can, and that goes for reporting players and reporting bugs. If we need to discuss the matter with you in private we will message you, not the other way around. Also do not attempt to go to a higher ranking Admin because you didn't get the resolution you wanted. When we make a decision it is considered final.
- No Server Bug Exploitation - If you find a bug, especially one that gives you a clear advantage, you must report it IMMEDIATELY! Failure to report bugs or issues with the server simply because you wish to exploit it for your own benefit will result in expulsion from the community.
- Use Script / Server features as they were designed to be used - We try to provide you with as much functionality and tools to help you create your RP scenarios and overall story, without limiting your ability as much as we can. Do not abuse any function, item, or system to your advantage. Participation on the server is a privilege and if we catch you trying to break it to better yourself, you'll be warned, then suspended, then permanently banned in that order.

General Rules for Roleplay

- No Metagaming - No using OOC knowledge for In-Character actions. This includes any kind of off server voice communication software used to organize In-Character events and may not be used for in character discussions or planning. The only acceptable form of voice communication is the in game cell phones and radios, this communication must happen in game and not discord.

- No Powergaming - Do not declare an action against another player's character without giving the other player's character the freedom to act on their own prerogative. Find in game ways to make them comply with what you are trying to do.
- No Random Death Matching - Don't go buy a weapon and use it to just shoot at everyone you come across with no RP reason whatsoever. It's a form of OOC harassment, it isn't fun for anybody involved, it stops actual RP and it will get you kicked and or banned from the server. Oh and shooting people for a simple car accident is Random Death Matching, we've seen it before and don't want to see it again.
- No Car DM or OOC Bad GTA Driving - You can RP driving under the influence and in fact the server may cause you to do this if you consume alcohol or other substances and that's totally allowed. However, insane swerving with a vehicle or running players down is not accepted at all. Randomly driving through Police/FD barriers also isn't accepted because it is disruptive of the RP already on the scene. Running from the cops and driving normally by said scene is allowed though. Be warned if you are shooting at Police Officers they are allowed to tap you with their cruisers to disable you.
- No disconnecting or logging out to avoid RP - When you feel an RP situation doesn't go your way or you believe it didn't go down correctly, do not disconnect or logout to avoid the situation. It's a sign of poor sportsmanship.
  - Exception: If you are a victim of non-rp DM or Excessive Revenge Killing you may disconnect in order to report the offender if you need too. Just please make sure you get screenshots, and a player name from the scoreboard so we know who to go after.
- Revenge Killing - If you're character gets killed and goes through the injury/death system, you are within your right to seek out your killer in an RP fashion to revenge that injury/kill, but be warned if you continue to seek out the perpetrator repeatedly after revenging said injury/kill it could lead to Death Matching.
  - Revenge Kills are limited to 1 hour between attempts. If player A shoots player B, player B may revenge kill against player A. If player B is successful, neither player can try it again for 1 hour. No endless repeating loops.
  - Please bare in mind though, if this act of revenge is against a player/character of some notoriety (high level leader/boss) it could end up with your character getting Character Killed (permanent kill) and you won't be able to play with that Character anymore because they will be considered dead In-Character.
- Faction/Group Leaders are held accountable for the overall conduct of their member base - If someone seems too wild or uncontrollable, both IC and OOC (we understand if the character is supposed to be crazy) the leader should consider removing the person from the faction/group to remove liability. Think twice about the person you invite into your Faction/Group as you are responsible for that person's behavior.

- Weapons in your inventory - Any weapon in your inventory is considered to be on your person. So if you don't want it on you find some place to stash it.
- RPing with LEO - Due to how our cuff and taser systems work, once you are disabled by the police by being shot with a tazer, less lethal bean bag round, or you raise your hands, or you kneel and raise your hands to allow yourself being cuffed you lose the ability to resist or fight back against those actions. LEO on this server can not cuff you without you in some form of disabled or surrender state and that's to make it fair on you and them. Because of how fluid this system works don't expect LEO to perform any /me or /do actions to explain you being cuffed. The same is for searches, they can't search you until you are cuffed, disabled or in a surrender state they will announce they are searching you, then will call out what they find verbally.
- Player to Player Robberies - Searching players inventory works the same way cuffing does, it requires a player to be disabled, or in a surrender state for another player to search you and take your stuff. The robbery RP has to be authentic, the player being robbed has the choice to comply or face the consequences. And if that consequence is getting shot in the face, then that's your choice and it's considered good RP. Feel free to hunt the robber down in return, or call the police it's up to you on how it's handled. It's fair for both sides. You may not however just shoot someone to loot their items which is an automatic 24 hour ban, and you have to return the items and possibly pay a monetary fine to the administration team. Just don't do it, if the ban doesn't deter you the fine will.
- Robbing LEO/EMS/FD - Don't do it.. The equipment they carry is provided by script resources and is not available to normal players at normal stores and thus they are protected by the Admin team. The same goes for LEO/EMS/FD/Vehicles, don't take them. Their vehicles are not spawned by a menu, or command they are spawned from the database and can cause problems if you take them. Government entities can not spawn vehicles by command or vMenu. In the future we will lift this rule, until then leave the cars alone.
- Car Jacking Non-LEO/FD/EMS - This is allowed, it must be RP'ed with a weapon. You can't just rip them out and drive off. You either use a weapon to get them out, or you drag them out then use a weapon to attempt to intimidate them to let you take it, or give them the chance to flight back, but standard GTA V 'get a car' isn't allowed.
  - Exception - You can still jack the locals/AI eventually they'll be able to report their cars stolen.
- Do not RP the following scenarios, they are banned - We have our reasons, and because they are insensitive, bad taste or a little too close to home for some people.
  1. Any kind of perceived or otherwise non-consensual sexual assault
  2. Any kind of sexual fetish RP

3. Suicide
4. Hate Crimes against any minority or person.
5. Terrorist groups real or fake (This is banned by the fiveM Terms of Service)
6. School Shootings
7. Random "Active Shooter" scenarios, for more info ask an admin.
  - Expect this list to grow.

General Rules for your Characters

- No Famous Names - Please use a valid First and Last name. There are many RP character generators on the internet to help name your characters if you need help. Do not use names of well known figures, celebrities, criminals or likewise. This isn't meant to be just like real life but the GTA lore version of real life.
- No Unrealistic Character Roles - If you want to be a mob boss, head of a cartel or a well known gang leader you must RP your way there. It can happen, the tools are available to you to make it happen. Your character needs to be realistic and believable, if it's not you could be found in violation of the power gaming rule. On this server you're a nobody until you're a somebody and it takes work to become someone. If your character is portrayed as a mass murderer and goes on a rampage expect a life sentence or a swift execution by the state which is a CK that is explained below.
- Character Kills - This is more of a warning than a rule. Your character does have the chance of meeting an untimely end and CK's are permanent meaning the server will not let you RP as that character anymore and you aren't allowed to recreate them.
- Value your Character's life - With the above in mind, you are required to value that you're character can die at any time for any reason. You must RP with this in mind at all times otherwise you can and will lose everything you worked for. Don't take a risk unless you have a big enough group and or weapons to back it up. Otherwise you're just going to get run over like you weren't even there.
- Character Asset Transfers - Totally not allowed, so don't even ask. And don't try to transfer assets between your characters yourself or you will be in violation of the Money Farming rule which exists specifically for this reason.
- Character Reputation - Be aware of how your character stands with law enforcement, with regular civilians and especially with illegal criminal organizations. Running afoul with LEO, or the criminal organizations have different consequences and all of this adds to your characters overall RP story. We don't just reset everything when the server restarts we RP for the long term. Our prison/jail sentences can last from 15 minutes to several hours of real life time depending on the crime committed. If you make the wrong people mad in the criminal organizations they could and probably will make your characters ability to grow and gain wealth very difficult. So except that there are more powerful players than you and don't go writing checks with your mouth that your ass can't cash.

- Character Respawns - The situation when you are treated by FD/EMS and taken to the hospital after an incident that causes the injury/death system to respawn you are covered in the Revenge Killing section. When you are admitted to the hospital, an appropriate timeout counter will start to remove you from the action for a randomized period of time. This will prevent you from appearing back at the incident that may have caused this scenario and removes your character from the overall equation to allow the situation to cool off a little, and to RP that you are in the hospital recovering from your injuries. When you are released from the hospital you are free to RP the aftermath in whichever way you see fit that doesn't break any of the rules.
- Character Jail Times - If you are arrested for an offense expect to serve a little bit of jail time depending on the crime. You're initial time in jail after your arrest isn't your full sentence and shouldn't be treated as such. Initial booking and Jail times are setup to remove your character from the RP world so law enforcement can complete reports, submit your arrest record then you will be released. Being released from jail doesn't absolve you of serving more time or paying a fine, once all the reports are submitted it will be reviewed by the admin team who will act as a pseudo court. You will receive a text message on your in game phone eventually with the outcome and instructions. If there is a fine you will see an invoice requesting payment in the banking app.

Expect this to change, regularly. Remember it is your responsibility to keep up with the rules.

Thank you
UGRP Administration
